IN THE NEWS

Epicuria is regularly featured in major National dailies, owing to the unique nature and offerings of the space as well as the high-profile events it hosts from time to time.

Glamour overload at this EPIC night!

The Capital's food enthusiasts and glitterati from the social circuit got together as Epicuria, the premier food destination in South Delhi unveiled its upper floor with a super swanky gathering. The place is now home to food brands like Dhaba by Claridges, Nandos, Social, Pizza Express, Taco Bell. It's for the first time that the finest food brands like these have come under one roof. The swish, power packed launch saw guests indulging in the real pleasure, s the love of food!

Pioneer of the concept, Vivek Bahl, co-founder, Epicuria, on the occasion, said, "the launch of the upper floor of Epicuria was one-of-its-kind where we witnessed synergies of more than 5000 people under the same roof. The idea to expand Epicuria is to bring a varied range of eating and recreational joints together to offer a one-stop food destination to customers. We are sure that these already established brands with an unabashedly large following, will be well accepted by people. Epicuria is a place food lovers would call heaven."

Currently Epicuria houses various international hi-end food chains to QSR's to lounge bars and clubs. The dining options ranges from fine dining restaurants such as Flo, Benihana to lounge bars and clubs. Those who were spotted at the stylish do included fashion designers Varun Bahl, Rohit Gandhi, David Abraham, FDCI president Sunil Sethi, restaurateur AD Singh, among others.

A hub that offers diverse gourmet and watering holes at Nehru Place, Epicuria has upped its appeal by adding another floor of top-notch food joints and partying places, it's a concept started by epicureans Vivek Bahl and Ravinder Taneja.

The new zone which offers sensuous enjoyment through good food and drinks and houses iconic brands such as Social, Nandos, Bhabis by Claridges, Taco Bell, Pizza Express, Lord of the Drinks, Bianchi and Chaayos, opened with a bang. Designer Varun Bahl co-hosted a grand party with his brother Vivek, Ravinder Taneja and Sona Bahl on Wednesday night to celebrate the new attraction at Epicuria.

It seemed the entire city headed up for the party be it tinsel tout, models, socialites and hardcore foodies, everyone was spotted there, enjoying great food and drinks. Ravinder and Renu Taneja, Vivek and Sona Bahl, and Varun played host to Riyaz Amlani, Kalyani Saha, politician Renuka Choudhary, Gita Kapoor, Ali Singh, Sushma Puri, gallerists Gaurav Kavan and Amit Vadera and, from the Bath Brat, Sunil Sethi, Bobbi Gandhi, Gauri and Natasha Kavan, and many more. It was one of those parties where food was the star attraction. Misc say Epicuria is a must visit.

Nehru Place, famous for its computer market and corporate offices, for the past few years, has had one more attraction for the people of Delhi – Epicuria, the food court inside the Nehru Place Metro Station. On Wednesday, the capital saw unveiling of its upper floor. With eight new restaurants and pubs opening in Epicuria, it is becoming the new food destination for Delhiites. The newly opened restaurants include some big names like Nando's, Pizza Express, Dhaba by Claridges, Lord of The Drinks, The Irish House, Taco Bell and Social.

All the restaurants have some of their finest dishes on offer. With its 4th outlet in Delhi NCR, Pizza Express is offering a fusion of some of the finest Italian and Indian flavours fused together for their pizzas.

Epicuria Delhi, the licencee of Delhi Metro at Nehru Place metro station for managing the commercial space, has added an additional 40,000 sqft of food and dining space on the ground floor of the metro station, in addition to the existing 60 sqft of F&B space on the basement. The ground floor which was housing the electronic retail space has been converted into food space with both international and domestic F&B brands taking space to delight the customers.

The newly converted space will have food chains like Taco Bell, Social, Nando's, etc. Adding flavour to the space will be a Fitness Centre, Salon, library, in Delhi at Epicuria.

Speaking to Hospitality Biz, Vivek Bahl, Founder of Epicuria said that the idea is to create first of its kind organized space for food and entertainment in the city of Delhi. The fitness centre at Epicuria will offer 'hot yoga' sessions in day, and the promoters are expecting to double the footfall with the addition of space and features. With posh residential colonies around, and Nehru Place itself a business hub, Bahl expects to offer a "complete package" for entertainers and diners.

Commenting on their future expansions, Bahl said that Epicuria will manage two more food spaces in Delhi NCR. They have taken 50,000 sqft space at WorldMark from Bharti at Aerocity New Delhi, which will become operational by end of this year. "We are doing a new concept of European food street there with 30% alfresco dining. The space is attached to the GMR rain forest area," he said.

a feeling of space as well as warmth. One wall is covered with a floor to ceiling cabinet, holding art pieces and cook books among other knick knacks. It contributes majorly to the warm feeling.

A pebbled patio with an al fresco dining area paves the way to an interior that is pleasantly cheerful and cool-like at day and transforms into a moody and soulful space at night.

The place offers a European fare along with contemporary Indian dishes. Says Vineet Wadhwa, the owner, "We have gone about creating the menu with a lot of passion. We have tried to present some innovation and give some twist to our preparations without compromising on authenticity." The place also has a separate dinner menu with more of grills and Indian kebabs.

There are the Fio special salads and soup or the sumptuous empanadas and casseroles. Fresh homemade breads and pastas add to the pleasure of a comfort- ing meal. We started with flame chicken and lentil broth and followed it with cookhouse salad. The spit fired grilled chicken we had was excellent. The main course had some enticing choices and our choice of Australian lamb chops and grilled jumbo prawns turned out triumphs.

From the Indian section, we tried the rogli meat pulao that comes with raita and dum gravy. The mutton was done just right and the flavours emanating from the rice were delicate.

Other good choices include roasted hunter chicken and aromas glazed pork chops. For lovers of Indian spices, the chef will dish out in-house curries, frontier kebabs and the choicest of char grilled and pan grilled meats. There are some authentic Indian dishes such as Pondicherry prawns, kalonji paneer and Grand Trunk mut- ton curry.

The dessert is a not to be missed section, specially the freshly baked fifteen minute cake. It is as fresh as it gets. We loved it and so would you. We also appreciated the Fio choco- late flan and violet cheese cake.
